Baileo: Jurnal Sosial Humaniora is published by Pattimura University under the management of the Faculty of Social and Political Sciences. This journal is published three times a year, namely in January, May, and September. The articles published may be theoretical analyses, literature reviews, and research results. The journal focuses on research articles and book reviews centred around social sciences and humanities development. This encompasses various fields such as sociology, communication, public administration, political science, anthropology, psychology, economics, history, cultural studies, human geography, media studies, education, gender studies, philosophy, and other social humanities disciplines. The name "Baileo" is derived from the traditional house in Maluku, which was used as a gathering place for community discussions and exchanging ideas. This reflects the journal's purpose, which is to serve as a platform for exchanging ideas and advancing knowledge in social sciences and humanities. The journal aims to facilitate in-depth discussions and research across various aspects of social sciences and humanities, contributing to a better understanding of society and social issues in Indonesia and worldwide.

This edition covers a wide range of topics, including community health strategies against Covid-19, the role of values in education, the impact of digital communication on public relations, and innovative approaches to character education through honesty canteens. Further articles delve into water resource management on Kisar Island, sustainable urban waste management in Ambon City, rhetorical strategies in Covid-19 communication, the benefits of social pensions in Tanzania, agrarian conflicts in Maluku, and the intersection of women's reproductive rights and stunting in Indonesia. Each study offers valuable insights and practical solutions, underscoring the importance of community engagement, policy integration, and interdisciplinary approaches to address complex social and environmental challenges. We hope this collection stimulates further research and meaningful dialogue within the global academic community.
